

I am against the Consumer Bankers Association's attempt to weaken Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law. Since the law has been in effect, we are finally able to enjoy our home, family and friends without unwanted and unsolicited telephone solicitor harassment.

Please do not change this law UNLESS it is to make it even stronger. We, the consumers pay for our telephones--not the companies who call us trying to sell or inform us of something. They steal our time, interrupt our work, hobbies and lives--and use the consumer's own telephone to do it.

Please make them leave us alone.
